Profile

"While I did not summer with Clark Wilson, I have been able to seamlessly become part of the team. The work environment at the firm can easily be described as supportive and fulfilling. Both Partners and Associates take the time to help students build essential professional relationships, and aren't afraid to give students immersive work from the outset. I have had the opportunity to shape my articling experience by seeking out work that is of interest to me, and have been encouraged to take on work I would not have otherwise been exposed to. I can certainly say that I feel intellectually challenged on a daily basis. Most notably, I have been heavily engaged in work from the Aboriginal Business and Commercial Real Estate groups. It is easy to see how work that you do, even as a student, has an immediate and significant impact in the real-world. Many students may feel out of their depths while articling, but at Clark Wilson you are unquestionably given the opportunities and tools required for success."
