Profile

"From the outset of my summer articles at Clark Wilson, I was presented with genuine opportunities to succeed. Whether I was conducting basic research, playing a key role in the closings of major transactions, or drafting important regulatory disclosure documents, I always had the full trust and support of the Partner or Associate for whom I was working. Throughout my summer, I always had the freedom to seek out work from my particular practice areas of interest, but I was also always encouraged to try different types of work in order to have a well-rounded articling experience."
