Profile

The stakes are often high in securities. Companies need practical solutions when they're looking to raise capital or if they're navigating stringent securities regulations. Alex works to deliver sound business strategies essential for growth.

Alex's technical skillset provides him with the ability to efficiently assist our clients with their financings and prospectus offerings. Aware these matters come with strict deadlines, Alex is calm and collected under pressure in order to meet urgent needs.

An example of one of the legal projects Alex has undertaken was the IPO of a mining exploration company. This complex transaction required Alex to manage the financial expectations of our clients, meet compliance standards and ensure the appropriate corporate measures were taken.
