Profile

The pace of change of the commercial real estate sector in Vancouver has increased rapidly over the past decade, requiring business leaders to move swiftly and strategically when buying, selling and developing property. Matthew's strength lies in his thoughtfulness, agility and efficiency when our clients come to him for transaction advice and business-oriented legal solutions.

Having transitioned from the role of general counsel at one of Canada's pre-eminent builder-developers, Matthew brings a wealth of first-hand client insight to our Commercial Real Estate practice group. He understands how legal decisions impact our clients' businesses. This includes long-term operational and financial implications, as well as their cascading effects across departments, divisions, management levels and strategic partnerships. His ability to analyze a situation and offer practical, considered guidance adds significant value for clients during the decision-making process.

Matthew believes that there is no such thing as a "one size fits all" legal approach. He is inquisitive and committed to developing tailored solutions for our clients that align with their businesses' unique needs. His industry experience allows him to identify potential risks and creatively bridge gaps to help clients achieve their commercial objectives.
