My articling experience at Clark Wilson has been excellent. I knew going into my articles that I wanted to pursue a specific area of law. The team of highly qualified and talented lawyers specializing in my preferred area of law not only acknowledged my expressed interest, but also actively engaged it. They immediately included me in internal meetings and provided me with a variety of opportunities to work and learn in this area of law. For example, I have had the opportunity to attend client meetings, draft various documents and pleadings, conduct legal research, and write legal memorandums on complex issues of law. The work has been interesting and challenging, and I have felt supported by the entire team at Clark Wilson. The lawyers welcome my questions and willingly offer guidance and feedback. I am so grateful for their dedication to my growth and professional development. Overall, I consider myself very fortunate to be articling at Clark Wilson.
