Profile

During my articles at Clark Wilson, I've had the opportunity to attend and argue contested applications, take an active role in a two-week trial, perform interesting research, and experience many diverse areas of law. The work has been both rewarding and instructive. My time here has also given me the chance to connect with new friends and mentors, and to learn from the incredibly talented group of lawyers, paralegals, legal assistants, and other students. I am excited to continue learning throughout the remainder of my articles.
