Whether it is a business owner, officer, manager, designer, builder, manufacturer, insurance examiner, or in-house counsel, Glen tailors his service to make that person's job easier, help achieve their legal objectives and benefit the overall organization.

Whether in court or in negotiations, Glen is a powerful advocate for our clients. He is open to exchanging ideas and working with the other parties all while protecting and advancing our clients' interests. He understands the risk and reward zones for each party and uses this knowledge to achieve the terms most favourable to our clients.

Glen has the experience and intuition to advance arguments gently when appropriate and tenaciously when required.

As a contributor to his field, Glen writes for various publications and speaks at industry events, educating the greater public and our clients to help them learn the law and how it affects them. For example, Glen:

- > Gave a talk to Construction Specification Canada members on design professional liability
- > Presented a seminar on Understanding Construction Bonds at Buildex Vancouver
- > Presented on Annual Year in Review for British Columbia Insurance Institute

Glen recognizes that when facing litigation, people are at important and sometimes foreign crossroads. His strength of character and resolve are welcomed constants for people facing litigation. Glen cares about what is truly best for our clients, and his focus is always on obtaining the best possible result to protect their business and livelihoods.
